ELLETT AND STEFANELLI TESTIFY TO E.L.E.C.

NJLP Secretary Emerson Ellett and NJLP Treasurer Lou Stefanelli addressed New Jersey's Election Law Enforcement Commissioners on February 18. Ellett's testimony included this:

"Mr. Chairman, the New Jersey Libertarian Party favors vigorous and open political debate. Therefore it cannot endorse public funding of campaigns and limits on contributions. The problem isn't a matter of money corrupting politics. The problem is power. As long as the State of New Jersey takes in billions of dollars, special interests will fight to get their hands on them. Until the state confines itself to its legitimate functions—the protection of individual rights and keeping the peace—and until it returns those billions to the people—the perceived high cost of political campaigns will persist.

Emerson Ellett

"For the past twenty years there has been a referendum in New Jersey regarding publicly financed elections, and every year it fails. In 1976, the first year of the gubernatorial election tax check-off, 38.1% of eligible taxpayers checked the box, for a total of $1.2 million. By 1995 the participation rate had fallen to 20%, for a total of about $864,000. During the period 1976-95, $27.2 million was transferred to the gubernatorial election fund; however, subsidies of gubernatorial primaries and general elections from 1977-97 totaled $62 million. Even when the 1996 and 1997 tax check-off figures become available it is clear that there is a $30 million shortfall in the gubernatorial election fund. Further, the tax check-off gives the mere illusion of democratic participation. In fact, politicians are not constrained by the check-off; they receive matching public funds for however much money they raise. Mr. Chairman, since Jerseyans have overwhelmingly rejected public financing, why continue it?..." T

FLYNN ADDRESSES ABATE

NJLP Chair Len Flynn was one of several honored guest speakers at the annual State Meeting of ABATE, on January 17 at the Clarion Hotel in Edison.

ABATE (American Bikers Aimed Toward Education), is a statewide association of approximately 3000 members characterized by love of individual rights and distaste for taxation. More specifically, they oppose mandatory helmet laws for motorcyclists.

Flynn says the endorsement of the Hunterdon County Chapter of ABATE is the only specific factor he knows of to account for the fact that NJLP Gubernatorial Candidate Murray Sabrin got more than ten percent of the vote in only one county: Hunterdon. T

ADLER v. LIVAK LOST ON APPEAL

NJLP member Diane Adler of Somerset lost on appeal of her earlier defeat in her suit against her town's Police Chief, Daniel Livak, on February 11.

New Jersey Appellate Court Judges Baime and Brochin listed the circumstances under which gun permit applications can be denied, in their ruling:

"...a criminal conviction, drug or alcohol dependency, a mental disorder, a physical or psychological handicap bearing upon the applicant's capacity to handle safely such weapons, a domestic violence order proscribing possession of firearms, and other undefined problems where issuance of a permit would be inconsistent with the public health, safety, and welfare We stress that the phrase 'good cause for denial' is not defined in the statute (on which Adler's appeal was based)."

Adler had sued to enforce the law requiring that gun permits be issued within thirty days, "unless good cause for the denial thereof appears" (NJSA 2C:53-3f). Livak had issued her gun permit, but took fifty-six days to do so.

Adler was represented in the case by NJLP member Elizabeth Macron.

ASK THE CAMPAIGN PRO

By David Kamioner

By the responses to our first installment, we've got some campers out there who need some very basic campaign advice. To wit:

How much attention should you pay to voters who probably won't vote for you?

Generally, very little. Voters can be broken into three categories: Saints (your definite supporters), Savables (voters who might vote for you), and Sinners (voters you don't have much of a shot with). Usually, you ignore the sinners and concentrate on the saints and savables, especially in low voter turnout elections. But, as Libertarians, the savables are our only chance for victory, so go for them in a big way. Saints for us are registered Libertarians. Savables can be students, boomers, Gen.Xers, economic conservatives, gun enthusiasts, gays, civil libertarians, and areas with weak local second parties that might be looking for an opportunity to bounce the incumbent, but don't see it in the weak second party.

With funds so scarce in campaigns, how important is a campaign HQ?

The bigger the campaign, the more important it is. But any campaign will need, at least on election day, a central location to run operations out of—and to drink in after the results come in.

Any advice on how to fire people from a campaign?

Have the Campaign Director do it quickly, face to face and as painlessly as possible. No need to go down a litany of the offender's faults. Thank them for their service to the campaign so far and explain that it just isn't working out. Take no excuses or explanations, just thank them again and get them out of your hair.

David Kamioner

NAME THAT SAGE

Mark Twain

Last month's quote:

"Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits."

came from the calendar of Pudd'nhead Wilson, the hero of a book by the same name, by Mark Twain.

"Imperfect products should be available because consumers have different preferences for defect avoidance."

Who said this? The answer in the April New Jersey Libertarian.

How important is a candidate's appearance?

In this day and age, massively. Now, you don't have to have a Venus or an Adonis as a candidate (though it would really help), but they've got to be at least presentable, well-groomed, professional looking and dressed in the professional style of the area you're running in.

Some mistakes for men: long hair, no coat or tie, polyester anything, too many rings (two max: college and wedding) or any earrings, loud ties, facial hair, anything but oxblood or black shoes.

Some mistakes for women: tight clothes, non-styled hair, spike heels, too much jewelry, pant suits, jeans (outside of rural areas), weird shiny fabric, too much makeup.

Women will generally vote for men they think are attractive and that agree with them on most issues; men will vote for women they want to sleep with and agree with them on a couple of issues.

How should I deal with the party structure?

Carefully. People usually vote for the person, not the party. The party can really help a lot with fundraising, but keep it away from message and personnel. Parties usually have their own agendas in those areas, and they might not necessarily be yours. T

meets Sunday, April 19, 1 pm, at the home of whoever wins election as Chair at the NJLP Convention in March.

EDITORS SPAR OVER DiFRANCESCO BILL

State Senate President Donald DiFrancesco on February 17 proposed new Election Laws which would

- require candidates (like Murray Sabrin) to disclose the names of ALL donors, not just those who gave more than $300, and
- count only donations from New Jersey residents in assessing which candidates get "official status," recognized by the state and included in debates. (this rule would have disqualified Murray Sabrin).

The response from editors was mixed; the Burlington County Times and The Times of Trenton praised the proposal, while the Daily Record of Morris County and the Courier-Post of South Jersey denounced the move as an obvious ploy in DiFrancesco's imminent run for governor.

SHOULD THE STATE BOARD BE ABOLISHED?

NJLP member Ed Wiessmann will move that ten items be struck from the NJLP bylaws at this month's convention. Wiessmann says these ten deletions will abolish the NJLP State Board. Concerned members should note that the announcement of this proposal in the February New Jersey Libertarian contained three errors in section or subsection citation. See Correction on Page 4.

Here, Wiessmann argues for his proposal, and NJLP Chair Len Flynn responds for the opposition.

ABOLISH THE STATE BOARD

by Ed Wiessmann

The State Board was created to serve as a "check" on the Steering Committee, second-guessing the party's officers and thwarting plots to hijack the NJLP.

In practice, it is just another layer of bureaucracy in the management of our state affiliate. It takes six weeks of work by several party activists to stage a State Board Election each year, and the only result in practice is to expand the number of votes at a few Steering Committee meetings, currently from seven to eleven.

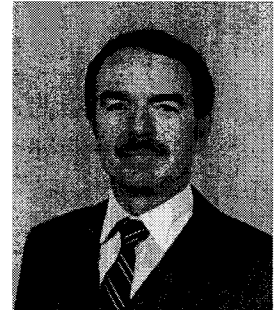

The State Board also provides a steady stream of embarrassment, as twenty-one counties are entitled to elect representatives, and only five do so, and only three of them had contested elections, and one of those chose "None of the Above" (NOTA), and NOTA has a better attendance record than some of the elected members!

One of the most important benefits of freedom is that useless or dysfunctional institutions are abandoned, freeing up labor and other resources for things we want and need more.

That's the practical advantage of abolishing the State Board: people who would otherwise spend a day, four times per year, driving to a meeting and adding an eighth, tenth, or twelfth vote to policy decisions can, instead, gather signatures on petitions, organize a local group's activities, write letters to the editor, run for public office, challenge a law, stage a demonstration, or serve on the Steering Committee.

There's another, more important issue here too; Libertarians propose to abolish many branches of government on the grounds that people don't and won't willingly support them. Are we willing to abolish just one branch of our own party's bureaucracy on the same grounds? Are we going to preserve our dysfunctional institutions, because they must

SAVE THE NJLP STATE BOARD!

by Len Flynn,
NJLP Chair

The proposal to abolish County Representatives and thereby eliminate the State Board means the NJLP is poised to abandon a membership organization and assume a corporate-style form isolated from its members. Libertarians have long argued against centralized governing power, yet we now have a proposal to centralize our own party and isolate the NJLP leadership from the members. Do the NJLP members really want to surrender their right to elect county representatives and give nearly total power and authority over their party to a majority of the (at most) seven members of the Steering Committee, subject only to review at a general meeting often months later?

It was hoped that 1994 reforms to the NJLP Bylaws would increase member involvement in state activities, particularly from members in "unorganized" counties. The nomination and election of County Representatives to the State Board were directly by individual members in each county with no participation by the county organization. Formal written nominations and ballots were required and, not surprisingly, participation by county activists declined. Failure of a county's members to master the election hurdles and select someone as their county rep now meant they were prohibited for the whole next year from choosing one. (See NJLP Bylaws sec. 5d4f.) Instead of increasing activism the number of county reps dropped from up to a half of N.J. counties (7-11 Reps on the State Committee) in the 5 years prior to 1994 to less than a quarter now (4 current Reps on the State Board).

The NJLP opposes election law barriers for our candidates, yet we had inadvertently erected our own obstructions for State Board Representative candidates. These deficiencies can be remedied with minimal changes to the be somehow better than dysfunctional government institutions?

The NJLP's members have, by their inaction, made it clear that they couldn't care less about the State Board. The market has spoken. Let's put it out of its misery. T

SOME REPUBLICAN REVOLUTION!

By Sheldon Richman

With revolutionaries like these, who needs counter-revolutionaries?

Now that President Clinton has signed all the 1998 spending bills we have a clear picture of just how vigilant the Republican Party, which controls the US Congress, is about cutting back on the scope and power of government. It is not a pretty picture at all.

As the Washington Post puts it, the spending bills "mark a reversal of the Republicans' effort since taking control of Congress in 1995 to shrink the size of the federal government. In some cases the Republicans even allowed substantial increases in programs they once vociferously opposed."

The total spending figure is $1.7 trillion—a record. Under this Republican budget, domestic spending other than "entitlements," will grow by $22.6 billion. That's about ten percent more than the previous budget, over four times the rate of inflation. For the first time in three years, government spending's share of the economy will grow. While that budget was part of a so-called balanced budget agreement spanning five years, the first budget won't be balanced—in fact, the deficit will probably increase.

Republicans in cahoots with Clinton are showering money on all kinds of government programs. There will be increases in spending on failed educational programs, health, highways, transportation, immigration control, the drug war, and the FBI, which has done so much lately to justify public confidence. The GOP made sure to increase spending on programs they used to oppose, such as the Legal Services Corp., Goals 2000, and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. The IRS was awarded a ten percent hike to fix its computers.

When the Republicans won control of Congress in 1994,

NJLP Bylaws and election procedures to "free up" the system. Those who want to eliminate the State Board would have you believe the solution to low voter turnout and few candidates is to abolish elections entirely. I believe every NJLP member should keep his or her right to select a county rep, whether or not the member chooses to exercise that right is no justification for taking it away.

The abolition "solution" does not facilitate the inclusion of more county reps but seeks to eliminate them entirely. The real answer to "fewer" activists is finding "more" not substituting "none." The NJLP needs more activists not less!

Selection of a county representative is your right as an NJLP member to select a local activist—which could include yourself—to monitor and control your party. By abolishing the State Board, that choice is gone for good. Do not surrender your county vote, save the State Board. T their leaders said they had a mandate from the people to drastically reduce the power of government. If they believed that, what happened? The only plausible answer is that these Republicans didn't really mean it. Talking about bloated government and the restoration of freedom makes good campaign talk. But when they get down to business, it's business as usual. And why should that surprise anyone? Like the Democrats, the Republicans are career politicians whose chosen line of work is government. They believe that when there is a choice between government power and individual liberty, power should usually win.

Thomas Jefferson said that "the natural progress of things is for liberty to yield and government to gain ground." Surely part of what he had in mind was the incentive for officeholders to increase their own power. They want to be reelected and experience shows that the best way to do that is to bestow goodies on well-organized interests. The majority of taxpayers are not organized and are usually too busy to get through the thick smoke to see all the damage government spending causes.

Those of us who want government dramatically reduced and limited should be forgiven for despairing. There might be ways to turn things around, such as term limits and repeal of all restrictions on third parties, but the very people who now hold power would have to permit those changes. I don't expect them to do that, at least not until a critical mass of citizens stops voting for—and encouraging—them. T

MAKE THE PLATFORM ABORTION-NEUTRAL

Editor:

Ed Wiessmann is correct. The Libertarian Party Platform should not take any position on the legality of abortion.

The question comes down to "Is abortion equivalent to murdering an innocent human being?" Consider for a moment the premise that it is. I must disagree with my dear friend Ginny Flynn who said in the November/December New Jersey Libertarian: "there are no 'libertarian' arguments for increasing the power of the state by deciding the issue through the force of law." A libertarian who believes that abortion is murder would naturally want the state to perform its legitimate role of protecting individual rights. They would say, "the state should not have the power to make it legal to kill certain people simply because they are unborn." No matter how passionately you tell them about a woman's right to control her own body, they will just as sincerely tell you that you are not just talking about one individual.

I am not trying to convince anyone that abortion should be outlawed. I just want to point out that it is not a contradiction to be a Libertarian and fight for laws to do so. I do not think of the abortion question as a political issue. We can not all get together and make a libertarian judgment on the morality of abortion any more than we could take a libertarian position on whether or not there is a god.

ELIMINATE THE STATE BOARD

Editor:

I am pleased that you are proposing to abolish the NJLP the State Board. I support this proposal. I offer this support as an individual member of the NJLP, not as a member of the Steering Committee or of the State Board.

As Libertarians, we often rail against government at all levels about inefficiency and bureaucracy. My interpretation of the NJLP Bylaws' description of the function of the State Board leads me to believe that this Board serves no unique purpose within the structure of our party organization. The Board's functions are duplicated elsewhere within the party framework. As such, we should set an example by streamlining our "government" by eliminating the State Board.

Don Imbriale

BURY THE STATE BOARD

Editor:

I vote yes to eliminate the State Board. The State Board rarely gets enough people together to accomplish anything. I prefer a corporate structure to a governmental one. What is it we are afraid the Steering Committee might do between elections—make a decision?

People have a tendency to run for this job because it gets them recognition at a low cost . . . they don't have to do anything, not even show up, and that is the history of the thing.

We would be better off finding some non-embarrassing way to show recognition to members who want it, rather than having meetings with no quorum, no agenda, no work getting done, and reports of who is absent in each newsletter. I suggest we strike coins with the faces of those we want to honor on them. Just kidding.

Sorry Len, I just don't see the point. This thing has never flown, let's bury it.

THE NJLP'S FIRST LOBBYIST

By Len Flynn, NJLP Chair

On January 17, I received my Legislative Agent (lobbyist) 1998 ID badge. I'm the NJLP's first "official" lobbyist. Why, you ask, do we need a lobbyist?

New Jersey election law must be changed this year to comply with court orders, and the NJLP must ensure that the gains we made last year are not swept away by legislative or administrative developments. The Council of Alternative Political Parties (CAPP) / New Jersey Civil Liberties Union (NJCLU) court victory nullified the state's April ballot access petition filing deadline and moved it back to late July, but for state legislature candidates only. Will the Demopublicans move the filing deadline for ALL offices to late July, or will they try to keep the earlier deadline for congressional, county, and municipal candidates?

The legislature must change the date, but is unlikely to leave the rest of the statute alone, particularly in view of the phenomenal success of the Sabrin Campaign. What changes to campaign finance laws will the Demopublicans conceive to hinder such campaigns in the future? Already, we have seen editorials in two major newspapers touting the mandatory public reporting of ALL contributors' names, not just those who gave over $300. This measure would deter many from donating to anyone's campaign, as politicians, bureaucrats, and employers could easily target those with the "wrong" political sympathies for intimidation or harassment.

To monitor and influence law requires a presence in the capitol. To establish this, the NJLP State Board appointed me Legislative Agent on December 21. Costs to the NJLP are a $325 registration fee, parking, meals, photocopies, postage, phone calls, mileage, etc. I volunteered a half-day per week (ten percent of my time) to represent the NJLP in Trenton.

For background, I spoke to Ms. Judy Annette of Basking Ridge, who was an unregistered lobbyist for the gasoline retailers' association and also for the New Jersey Council of Educational Commissioners. A few of her insights:

- Most legislators sponsor bills without knowledge of what they are doing, which means that they can't defend their own bills!
- Lobbyists must educate legislators.
- The legislative agenda is posted late, so one must work late to prepare for hearings and votes.
- Controversial bills get "fast track" consideration.
- She watched two spokesmen who did not prepare well get chewed up and spit out by legislators.
- Organizations need a watchdog, even if that seems ineffective.
- She recommends that the NJLP's lobbyist register because we are vulnerable and have a high profile.
- New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission (NJELEC) lobbying rules require lobbyist registration when expenses exceed $100 in a quarter, even if no salary is paid.
- Legislators and others seek out lobbyists on certain issues.

I believe we should sue to gain the right for any NJLP official to lobby without reporting, just as the R's and D's can do, and also to recover the $325 registration fee paid on my behalf. The regulations [NJAC 19:25-20.3(a)(4)] state that the provisions of the Legislative Activities Disclosure Act, as amended [NJSA 52:13C-20] shall not apply to the acts of a duly organized national, state, or local committee of a political party. Is there an attorney in the NJLP who would like to work (pro bono) with me here?

THE MEANING OF THE SECOND AMENDMENT

Barron's Law Dictionary defines the Second Amendment:

"The provision in the US Constitution that gives each state the right to maintain a 'well regulated Militia' and 'the people to keep and bear Arms.'

"The debates that led to the adoption of the Second Amendment indicate that its purpose was to prevent federal interference with state militia and the creation of a national army that would destroy local autonomy. The Second Amendment thus does not apply to private conduct, 92 US 542, 553, to state action, 116 US 252, 265, or to federal gun control laws that do not interfere with state militia, 307 US 174. See Tribe, American Constitutional Law, 299 n. 6 (2nd ed. 1988)."
